

Because we're stronger together

A new study from the UK Center for Business and Economic Research finds that investing $1 to make preschool available to more Kentucky children would result in more than $5 dollars for the state.

Join us to learn why that just makes good sense to seniors across Kentucky and how you can make it happen 1-2-3.

As part of Children's Advocacy Day, Seniors4Kids cordially invites you to learn why older adult voters across Kentucky are raising their voices in support of pre-k. Pre-k programs stabilize communities by employing people and keeping parents in their jobs. Over time, pre-k investments promote savings in government programs, boost revenue, and contribute to long-term fiscal security.

Our Mission:

Generations United's Seniors4Kids initiative demonstrates the important role that older adults can play in support of issues benefitting children and youth. In partnership with the Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence, we currently help adults age 50+ in Kentucky to create statewide networks of community leaders and grassroots volunteers that work to increase access to, and improve the quality of, pre-kindergarten programs.
